3D Pop Out Wedding Invitations

nuptialstv.com

We're talking about hot wedding invitation trends, and nothing will make your invite pop out more then by adding a third dimension to a usually flat medium. Including flowers, charm bracelets, shells, leaves, pearls, feathers, or any other object that is special to you and your future spouse will make your invitation more unique. Bind a single rose matching the type your fiance gave you on your first date along with your invitation, reply card, and map, or add some glitz to the invitation by creating a border made up of beads, jewels, or rhinestones... fake ones for those with normal budgets, and real ones for those couples who really just want to show off. Make sure you don't do too much when adding a bit of dimension to your invitation packages... you don't want to distract from the actual information inside the envelope. But adding extra, three dimensional flourishes to compliment the usual invitation can really help them pop out... and add a personal touch that will give your guests a little taste of you and your fiances personalities. Plus, everyone likes a nice surprise when they open a package!
